It was in & around the neat tidy seaside town of CLACTON-ON-SEA 1937 that ANDRE MALRAUX found what he thought best to do in life- a sense of direction - he kept some of the friendships he made to the end of his life - but the great honour of the Guardianship of GROTE HOMES brought him hideous sorrows for all his life - it will be necessary to interleave the whole of this work entitled SUMMER 1937 with this tragedy advancing upon us all - Killings begin to make a Class rich-using the state & divine kudos-

... I advise Georges-Andre that he is the world's greatest painter; he disput' th as we visit Dedham where Uncle Harry Gordon has friends - one gave him drawings by a M. Eiffel rather than pay money for restoring his early Rolls/or Daimler-explaining he was short of cash just then.
